PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Florida and THE WOODLANDS, Texas – PGA TOUR Champions announced today that YES to YOUTH –Montgomery County Youth Services, a charity beneficiary of the Insperity Invitational, has been named the Tour's 2025 Charity of the Year.

For 46 years, YES to YOUTH has served the Montgomery County, Texas community by providing at-risk youth and families with crisis intervention, counseling, shelter services, and suicide prevention programs. The nonprofit works to strengthen emotional and mental health while offering a safe, nurturing environment that empowers youth for the future. All services are provided at no cost through the support of donors and volunteers.

"We are thrilled to recognize YES to YOUTH as the 2025 PGA TOUR Champions Charity of the Year," said PGA TOUR Champions President Miller Brady. "This recognition demonstrates the significant impact that this organization makes on the lives of at-risk teens, youth, and families in the Montgomery County area. We are proud to support their mission with the help of the numerous YES to YOUTH volunteers, who also offer their time to the Insperity Invitational each year. Charitable efforts through our tournaments are an essential part of this TOUR, and we commend Insperity Invitational's commitment to their community."

The Charity of the Year award comes with a $30,000 donation from PGA TOUR Champions. The funds will go directly towards YES to YOUTH's BridgeWay Emergency Youth Shelter, a temporary home for children awaiting foster care placements, helping to provide food, clothing, and other necessities, along with opportunities and activities with the goal of creating a safe environment that allows them to embrace being a kid.

“We are very pleased PGA TOUR Champions has recognized one of our significant charity partners as their Charity of the Year,” said Bryan Naugle, executive director of the Insperity Invitational. “YES to YOUTH makes an outstanding impact on the youth in our community. We know this donation from PGA TOUR Champions will go a long way in changing lives.”
